And just like that the hard earned pocket money was gone – instead two turntables and a Conrad mixer graced BIRKENLAUBER's basement now. A worthwhile investment, because until this day, DJing and producing is still a great passion of the Hamburg based DJ.

While the first years as a DJ were characterized by Hip-Hop, Rap & RnB, at some point the first house music vinyls found their way onto his turntables. And that wouldn't change anytime soon. The love for electronic music manifested itself and grew over the years.

Let's jump to the present, where BIRKENLAUBER meanwhile is known for a powerful techno sound. His performances are a mixture of driving, more monotonous pieces and escalating peak-time tracks – sometimes raw, sometimes trippy and sometimes straight in your face. And: always surprising! It's not uncommon that now and then one of his sets reveals the roots of his musical origins, resulting in melodic and housey sequences.

BIRKENLAUBER has been producing his own tracks since 2012. Initially trying himself out in the slower BPM areas, he now focusses on productions with a straight beat, cool percussions, whipping hihats and clever chords, ensuring a lot of joy on the dancefloor. Many of his tracks have also successfully found their way into the Beatport genre charts.
